Florida Council For The Blind Seeks More Jobs

The Florida Council for the Blind has distributed a nationally distributed news report which states that private industry is failing to absorb job-trained blind persons in the ranks of the employed.

The Associated Press article said that the "system of trained blind persons seeking employment" sometimes must wait out of tune with the times because thousands can work and can't find jobs.

Murdoch Martin, executive director of the Florida Council for the blind, said almost the opposite is true in Florida. "We feel uneasy sometimes about approaching industry in an attempt to encourage them to employ the blind," Martin said, "because they are often willing to hire more trained blind persons than we are able to train to meet industry's need."

Martin said the real problem was to get increased state funds for the rehabilitation program so the council could rehabilitate more of the blind who are willing to work for a living.

The Associated Press article claimed that of the "nation's 4,250,000 legally blind citizens, only 11,000 . . . have regular jobs, many of them paying close to the minimum wage."

"Those that are employed often work in factories especially designed for the blind," the article said, "and although blind workers have proven their skills in existing factory jobs, their livelihood often is based on dust-cloths and brooms and such."

Martin said that less than nine per cent of the blind persons rehabilitated nationwide during the last fiscal year were employed in sheltered workshops for handicapped persons.

Only 3.1 per cent of those rehabilitated in Florida were employed in these workshops, Martin said.

National statistics released by the Rehabilitation Services Administration of the U. S. Department of Health, Education and Welfare show that during the last fiscal year, of over 6,000 blind persons rehabilitated over 42 per cent were placed in professional and skilled jobs.

Martin said that in Florida 60 per cent of the rehabilitated persons were placed in professional and skilled jobs.

Martin said that the Council has an increasing number of young clients who want to finish school and go on to college to prepare themselves for professional careers.

He said that the Council, which is primarily a vocational rehabilitation agency, is putting more emphasis on developing programs for better educating blind students and for training blind adults for skilled jobs.

"Every industry which has ever employed a blind person knows that they are very conscientious and reliable workers," Martin said.

Martin said that the Council's only actual job training program, which is still in the experimental stage, is training blind persons for skilled jobs in the growing electronics industry in Florida.

"We expect to get every one of these blind persons a job here in Florida when they have finished their training," he said.

RECEPTION

The reception, held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Nelson Nelson, was hosted by Mrs. Robert Compton, Mrs. Ed Polk, and Miss Linda Collins.

PERSONAL

Richard and David McMillan, sons of Mrs. Rudolph McMillan, and Larry Murray caught out at Fiddlers Creek last weekend. While there the boys found an Indian Mound that had been recently uncovered. Mrs. McMillan said they came home very excited to tell her of their find.

A Gourmet Cook And She's Only 11

A gourmet cook at 117 That's Mary Angela Wood of Belle Glade, who says she prefers the kitchen to the classroom.

Angela is spending part of her summer vacation in Naples perfecting her already considerable technique of epicurean cookery and really likes doing it.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert S. Wood. Belle Glade and is visiting her Aunt Mary, better known as Mrs. Mary Wood Dyer, Naples, a career woman and author, who is a noted gourmet chef.

"Good cooking," it seems, runs in this family!

Mrs. Mary's original recipe for "Stuffed Eggplant with Seafood" is included in a national best-selling cookbook, "Cooking as you like it," an outstanding collection of the favorite recipes of a celebrity—Mrs. Mary Wood Dyer.

The national cookbook, published by Macmillan Company of New York and Collier-Macmillan of London, and already in its third printing, is authored by Jane Wicks Martin, of Naples and Hartford, Conn., who has dedicated all profits from its sale to the American Shakespeare Festival Theater and Academy of Hartford. In the preface of the cookbook, Mrs. Martin gives a history of cookery with emphasis on cooking in Shakespeare's time.

Pictured here is a favorite creation of Angela's—her own version of "Pancakes a la Palermo," and she even gave the recipe for it.

The recipe is as follows:

PANCAKES A LA PALERMO
1/2 cup pitted black olives tablespoons self-rising flour

1 cup chicken broth
1 cup shredded Swiss cheese
2 tablespoons chopped parsley
2 tablespoons finely chopped celery leaves
1 teaspoon marjoram
1 teaspoon Accent
1/2 cup evaporated milk
1/2 cup sour cream
1/2 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
2 cups dried cooked chicken
1/2 teaspoon celery salt
Seasoned salt and seasoned pepper to taste.

Car olives in large pieces. Melt butter, blend in flour. Add milk, stirring until mixture boils and thickens. Blend in 1/2 cup sour cream. Worcestershire sauce, parsley, celery, salt, marjoram. Accent, and dried chicken. Divide filling among 8 French pancakes. Roll and place in shallow greased baking dish. Top with remaining sauce and chicken. Sprinkle with paprika. Bake in 375 degree, preheated oven for 15 minutes or until bubbly. Slip under broiler for 1 or 2 minutes to brown top. Garnish as desired with avocado slices, or whole ripe black olives.

FRENCH PANCAKES
Beat two eggs lightly and combine with 2-3 cup milk. Add 1/2 cup self-rising flour stirred with 1/2 teaspoon salt. Beat 1/2 until smooth. Blend in 1 tablespoon melted butter. Grease 6-inch skillet lightly, pour in 1/2 cup to spread. Bake until lightly browned, turning once to brown second side. Repeat until pancakes are cooked.

MARY ANGELA WOOD, who is displaying her own version of Pancakes a la Palermo, shows just one of her many creations.

Miss Buchanan, a 1967 graduate of Belle Glade High School, was previously enrolled in the nursing department at Palm Beach Vocational School, and is presently employed at the Holiday Inn.

Mr. Lamb is employed with the Belle Glade Police Dept.

The ceremony will take place at the First Baptist Church, Aug. 4, at 3 p.m.

All friends and relatives of the couple are invited to attend. No invitations are being sent.

VACATIONING HERE AND THERE

Recent house guests of Mr. and Mrs. Hubert Anderson were her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Gerald Melkum, and family from Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada. The Melkums have eight children but were accompanied by five of them. The three older boys, Eric, 17, Steven, 16, and Kenneth, 15, remained at home.

Combining the four Anderson children and the five Melkum family all ages were represented. The oldest was Gerald Melkum, Jr., 13, next Gary Melkum, 12, Charles Anderson, 11, Richard Melkum, 9, and Andrew Melkum, 8. Linda Anderson, 7, Eileen Melkum, 6, Paula Anderson, 5, and Tony Melkum, 4.

A big highlight of the children's visit was a trip to Crandon Park Zoo. They complained that the water was too hot to swim in. Mr. and Mrs. Melkum said they liked Florida but they thought they could stand the hot summer better than the Florida hot summer.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Owens and family spent the week and weekend in Daytona Beach visiting with his sister.

Mr. and Mrs. Alford Vadas have just returned from a 3-week vacation in Cedar, Arkansas. While there, they were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Don Tabb, former Belle Glade residents. They were joined later by their daughter Karol, who works at the reservation desk for United Airlines in Washington, D.C., and a friend of hers, Jerry Stewart, also from Washington, D.C. They flew to Memphis, Tenn., where they were met by Mr. and Mrs. Vadas. During their stay in Cedar, Mr. Alford, Mr. Stewart, and Karol enjoyed a 16-mile float down one of the Arkansas rivers where they caught their limit of six each Rainbow trout. Mrs. Vadas said the fish were "delicious."

SENSING THE NEWS

By Thurman Sensing
EXECUTIVE VICE PRESIDENT

Southern States Industrial Council

THE HUNGER SMEAR

The blackening of the reputation of the United States is carried out in a variety of ways. At this time of protest and violence, it is more subtle and vicious than the presentation of America as a land of hunger and starving children.

Fortunately, some congressional leaders have moved quickly to counter the deliberate twisting of America's reputation. This Rep. W. R. Poff (D-Tex.), Chairman of the House Agriculture Committee, has condemned as "inaccurate and misleading" the "hunger smears" that have been circulating in the United States.

This report, released by the Office of Economic Opportunity, cited some of the most progressive countries in the country as "hunger" countries.

Unfortunately, some members of Congress are using such misleading reports to push the federal government into bigger food giveaway programs. U.S. Rep. Frank Horton of New York is one of these Congressmen. He said that "hunger is an American national emergency. It must be treated as a national problem, with the accompanying federal initiative."

Now, it cannot be disputed that some children go to bed hungry in this country, but that's a very different thing from describing America as a land of hunger. Furthermore, the reason that some children are hungry is not because of a failure in our economic system, no set of government regulations, can give each child in this land responsible, hard-working parents. This is where the problem lies.

The advocates of federal food programs do not want to talk about it, but the fact is that such hunger as exists is largely the fault of parental failure and of weak moral fiber. Many of the children who are on insufficient diets in urban areas and slums are children born out of wedlock. The mothers in many cases are teenagers. No father is known, or the father refuses to accept any responsibility. Every social agency in the nation is familiar with this situation.

The "liberal" decline to recognize this situation because they would have to accept the fact of irresponsibility on the part of the people involved. They would have to acknowledge that some elements in our society are unfit for parenthood and have no feeling of responsibility for children brought into this world.

Feeding children is not a federal responsibility. It is the responsibility of parents. Yet many children are brought into this world before their parents are prepared to feed them. No thought is given to how these children will be cared for, fed, clothed or housed. The children are simply dumped on society. The taxpayers are told that they have a "junk society" because they don't provide larger welfare payments and more extensive food stamp programs.

This is not the only aspect of the problem that the "liberals" prefer to avoid. Numerous speeches are made about the poor diet of urban and rural slum children, who suffer on gruel and lack of vitamins. But nothing is said about the money that slum-dwellers spend on alcohol. Liquor stores in slums always do a robust business. It is possible on a weekend to see long lines of slum-dwellers at these stores working out their drink for the weekend.

means that the adults in the family are spending money that should go for foodstuffs.

What this evidence proves is that such hunger as exists in America today is overwhelmingly the result of individual irresponsibility. An unfortunately large number of people are not accepting responsibility for their own families. They look to the Government to be responsible for those who can't assume their share of the burden.

Much is said these days about sharing affluence and dignity and the delinquency of adults who aren't fit for parenthood or first-class citizenship.

As for affluence, it can't be created by distributing more handouts, by redistributing existing wealth. Affluence will spread only as the desire to work spreads among those who currently are uninterested in making sufficient effort to give themselves a decent life.

As for human dignity, that also is a result of an individual's personal efforts and personal integrity. Congress can't give dignity to a citizen by legislation for those who don't earn it through conscious striving, respect for law, and by self-discipline as opposed to dependence on the government.

It is desirable that all Americans have a share in affluence and dignity and a share in affluence. But individuals have to win these things for themselves. No one can do it for them.

Uncle Dan from Doolie Says

DEAR MISTER EDITOR:

Clem Webster told the folks at the country store Saturday night they have come out with a delectable called "Anonymous." It don't make you sadder no better, Clem said, but after you put it on a plate, you see it was purporting and who wasn't. And Clem said he had saw by the papers where they have started at Gumbies Anonymous for their addicks that was looked on cross word puzzles and TV guessing games and such things.

Ed Doolie was of the opinion the reason the Anonymous we couldn't locate was fast was on account of folks joining 'em just as bad in need of a Meetings Anonymous where, if you feel you got up in the house.

Zelle Grubb said he reckoned the reasoning behind all the Anonymous clubs was the idea they was strength in unity, but he was of the opinion a heap more is done by a fellow by himself than in a bunch. He recollected when Lindberg flew over the ocean by himself and the news was reported in Washington, one Congressman didn't look surprised. "When a committee does it, let me know," he said.

Ed was disagreed with Zelle on this point said the idea of people with the same problem getting together and helping one another is a heap better. That fellow Edson didn't make the first talking machine, said Ed, the Lord did. Edson just made one you could cut off. Ed said if it wasn't that his old lady had shed 30 pounds on him, he might have had to join the West Beaters Anonymous a long time ago. Ed claimed when Lindberg flew together at the store ever Saturday night was a Anonymous club. He said his old lady told him he had ought to call the store Oregon because we couldn't locate what was on account of folks joining 'em just as bad in need of a Meetings Anonymous where, if you feel you got up in the house.

Talker Anonymous Club because all we got to do at home is listen. Jack Clodhopper, that ain't never took a drink in his life said he thought Alcoholics Anonymous had done a good job. He only hoped, he said, we could get a Federal Alcoholics Anonymous, that people had got to depending on Government so bad they couldn't get along without it. He was in favor of a Spenders Anonymous in Congress and a Handout Anonymous for the able bodied huns in this country.

Personal, Mister Editor, I don't understand all I know about these Anonymous clubs, but from what I have seen in the papers, good idea to start Anonymous Anonymous, so ever time you get a problem all the friends will sudden say they don't even know you.

Yours truly,
Uncle Dan

Survival Capacity In Danger?

Concern about the nation's capacity to survive was voiced recently by Gen. Earl G. Wheeler, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

In a U.S. Senate subcommittee hearing, the general was asked by Sen. Stuart Symington whether he was "apprehensive about the survival capacity of the United States if things continue along these present lines."

"Yes," answered the general, but he qualified his answer. "The word 'survival' is a very broad one," he said. "It means the capacity of the nation to withstand the shock of a nuclear war, to maintain its government, to maintain its economy, to maintain its way of life."

But he said that the nation's capacity to survive was being tested by the present situation. "We are not sure that we have the capacity to survive the shock of a nuclear war," he said.

EYESORE OF THE WEEK

This could be a nerve.
From "A Midsummer Night's Dream."
But surely no guy elves could dream around.
Such an eyesore as this one we've found.

WHAT'S NEW IN SCIENCE?

Ballistics-powered "long johns" for deep-sea divers are being tested by the Navy. The system, called the "Long John" system, is a by-product of the restoration of nuclear fuel. It uses heat water passed through a heat exchanger to heat the diver's rubber suit. The system is being tested by the Navy's Naval Ordnance Research and Development Center at Dahlgren, Va.

Also related to the underwater world is the project "BOT-TOMIX," a manned habitat from which experiments could be conducted at depths of more than 12,000 feet. Preliminary studies have already been conducted under conditions equivalent to depths of 4,000 feet.

In another area of advanced work, scientists have successfully at last in part, in their "GEM" or "Gemstone" project. They have developed "gem" iron. Found only in the laboratory, the iron crystals have a strength up to 100 times that of ordinary iron. They are being used to strengthen alloys in much the same way steel reinforces concrete.

The above facts are verified by the General Electric Co., which is doing advanced work in these areas. Many other areas of scientific research and development in more than 50 laboratories across the country.

NO PEACE TALKS

The public, or at least a large and hopeful segment of the public, has been led to believe peace talks in Vietnam are just that — peace talks. Yet a careful examination of the statements of the North Vietnamese spokesmen show that the Paris negotiations are not really peace talks in the accepted sense of the term. In fact, the evidence is overwhelming that these are not peace talks.

For the North Vietnamese they are a tactic as they continue the war. They have given the North Vietnamese a partial reprieve from U.S. bombing and enemy operations are using them skillfully to play on the doubts of the American people for peace. The more serious question is whether the Johnson Administration has been straws in the wind, as various spokesmen say which offer a peace hope or whether the political has moved into the picture in this election year.

Some charge that present talks are, at least in part, a 1968 political maneuver designed to counter the unfavorable reaction of the public to war, to create an image that peace is in the offing.

The new Defense Secretary, meanwhile, has said he sees no troop withdrawal in Vietnam before 1970. Our chief negotiator in Paris has rented a house for his family. And Secretary of Defense Dean Rusk, contrary to opinions being expressed by others, says he sees no peace signs in the wind.

Since negotiations have now been in progress for some time and no progress has been made, it appears increasingly that the talks in Paris are currently primarily a political and propaganda gesture.

ATTITUDES & PLATTITUDES

A PLATTITUDE is a truth so often said that it becomes a bore. Or so experts in a platitude voiced by Aesop 2,500 years ago, familiarity breeds contempt.

The fact that we may tire of hearing a truth, however, doesn't lessen its value as a guide to behavior. The Golden Rule is a platitude perhaps "more honored in the breach than in the observance" — but that does not diminish its worth nor its practicality.

There is so fault in the platitude. The fault lies in its attitude, which can be disastrous — particularly in respect to driving an automobile.

There are quite enough platitudes in this regard: Speed can kill. Drive defensively. If you drink, don't drive. These are not words without meaning. Indeed, they are absolutely right. For everybody. But in the attitude of many of us they're for somebody else, not us.

Some drivers seem to operate quite contentedly by castigating everything and everybody but themselves. Their attitudes would indicate that the hazards of driving consist of an endless, unending pattern of fools behind other wheels, stupid pedestrians and defective vehicles. This is perhaps only human. It is also irresponsible.

When the circumstances are actually unfavorable to the driver. The more adverse the driving conditions, the fewer the accidents. It is when the weather is nasty, in highways treacherous and traffic most congested that the driver's attitude is at its best. That is when he is aware of the common sense of what, at other times, may have seemed only tedious axioms.

So, though it has been said to the point of boredom, it is an irrefutable fact that motor vehicle accidents are increased by the practice of caution, courtesy and common sense.

First Church of Christ Scientist

Sunday Service of August 4, 1968

"Beloved, let us love one another: for love is of God; and every one that loveth is born of God, and knoweth God. He that loveth not knoweth not God; for God is love."

These verses from 1 John are the basis of the lesson for the first of this week's Lesson-Sermon titled "Love to be real" in the Christian Science churches all over the world.

The Lesson-Sermon also includes selected passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy. Among them is the following: "When we realize that there is one Mind, the divine law loving our neighbor as ourselves, we are free from a belief in a rivaling mind; and the belief in a rivaling mind blinds man's mind, one God, and leads him to fight against his own mind, though often into opposite channels where selfishness reigns."

Whether or not we serve him, of course, the Scriptures make it very clear that we do not earn salvation; it is a gift from God's mercy and grace. God cares for us because He loves us, not because we are worthy. But it is not my intention to enter into this controversy in this article. I only wish to use it as a springboard to illustrate the outward attitude of many church members within and without the church.

It seems that many folk believe "the Lord will provide" for him without some expression of his gratitude to God through personal service which normally would include prayer, attendance at worship, the giving of offerings and aiding in church and worship, and community responsibilities.

Jesus said, "Every one that loves me shall keep my commandments, and I will abide in him, and does them will be like a wise man who built his house upon a rock." (Matthew 7:24)

Mormon Church To Show Film

On Ancient Peoples Of America

WOULD you like to know where the Indians came from and how they got their red skin? Why does every tribe of Indians have the legend of a Great White Father, whom the Indians mistake as Columbus and other Explorers? Also, why were some of the Indian tribes practicing a primitive form of baptism, when the first white man and monks came to them? How did the Great Calendar of the Aztec civilization make it easy for Cortez to take over the Aztec civilization? What is the explanation of the painting of white people and red skin people on the walls of the Temple of Warriors in Chichen, Ica, Yucatan, Mexico?

which was painted long before Columbus even thought of going to the Spice Islands by the western waters? Why did the primitive Indians of Mexico have manuscripts and tablets about Noah and the Tower of Babel which they told the first white men that came to America?

If you want to know the answers to these questions, come to the meeting of The Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints at 601 N.E. Ave. A. at 7:30 on Sunday, August 4. They are going to show film strips on the ancient people of America. Everyone is invited to learn about all these things.

Is This You?

L. L. Dunnigan, a preacher in Iowa City, says that 100 many of us are like the native who was asked, "If you had 100 sheep would you give 50 of them for God's work?"

"That I would," he replied, "I would be glad to give 50."

"If you had 100 cows would you give 50?"

"Of course I would," he replied.

"But you wouldn't give 50 out of 100 horses if you had them?"

"Oh yes, you would see that I would," insisted the native.

"Well, if you had two pigs would you give one of them?"

The man's countenance fell. "That's not a fair question. You happen to know that I have two pigs."

Happiness And Hay Fever

Information Service 1B & RD Association S. E. Fla. Happiness is a warm puppy, say the PEANUTS folk. But there is not much joy involved if you happen to be allergic to animal dander. If, in other words, you have "hay fever."

The flaky skin from animals triggers an allergic reaction in some people. Ragweed, dust, and mold spores can also cause sneezing symptoms. Swollen nasal passages and itchy eyes can sure spoil the fun of summer—the season when lots of plant pollen is swirling around in the air.

The happy thing is that there is something to be done for respiratory allergies. Sometimes antihistamine drugs, prescribed by a physician, may offer relief. The drugs, though, don't affect the underlying sensitivity. Avoiding the substance that triggers the allergic reaction is, of course, the best way to control hay fever. There is another way. Identifying the offending allergen. This may involve a long series of scratch tests with suspected substances. If the right one is discovered, there is some hope.

For the hay fever sufferer, quick cures and quick products can be disastrous. The only sure way to treat his allergy is with a doctor's advice.

Information about hay fever and respiratory disorders is available at your local TB-ED association. It's a matter of life and breath.

Rev. and Mrs. Ruby were in West Palm Beach on Monday on business.

Mrs. H. D. Merriam is recuperating at the home of her daughter Mrs. Muriel Bailey in South Bay, and later this week will go to the home of her daughter Mrs. E. P. Davis in Miami Springs.

Mrs. William Bailey is now home following her recent hospitalization.

Watch Out For Home Accidents

Home accidents were the seventh-ranking cause of death last year among Florida residents 65 and older, a recent report of health authorities shows. Such accidents ranked second as the reason for people being in nursing homes.

Falls accounted for 93 percent of the home accidents, says Miss Mary Todd, County Extension Home Economics Agent. Older persons are more accident-prone because they have less physical control, their feet are not as steady and their houses are older. Furthermore, age affects balance and reaction time. Older persons should, therefore, adopt a more self-protective attitude. Non-skid shoes are a "must."

Homes can present many other booby-traps for older people with failing eyesight. Miss Todd suggests that steps, thresholds, slippery wax floors and throw rugs should be eliminated. Loose stair banisters, insecure stair treads and poor lighting are especially dangerous. In these areas, 10 to 15-foot-candles are minimum requirements—about twice that needed by younger persons. Night lights from bedroom to bath are advisable.

The bath presents another hazard to older folks. They need a sturdy handhold in the wall near the bathtub and a rubber mat in it to prevent slips or falls. A railing on the bathtub attached before the bath and removed afterward, will help an elderly person to climb in and out more easily.

When an elderly person understands and accepts his own limitations and becomes familiar with his surroundings, he'll feel more confident and secure, concludes Miss Todd, and he'll be safer, too.

Rogers Blasts Proposal To Recognize Cuba On Anniversary

MR. SPEAKER, Today, the 26th of July, there will be celebrations in Cuba. There will be celebrations because Fidel Castro says there will be celebrations.

But indeed, there is little for the people of Cuba to celebrate. July 26th, the day that Castro started his march to power in Cuba, that innocently and patriotically represent the day that the people of Cuba were betrayed.

Today's celebration in Cuba will be in honor of Fidel Castro, not the Cuban people and not the Cuban nation. The nation has been delivered by Castro into the hands of communism and the people of Cuba have been delivered into poverty, hunger and hopelessness.

For these reasons, I was surprised to read the unrealistic comments of a member of the Senate this week. This member of the Senate proposed that the United States change its position toward Cuba, recognize the communist government there and in effect loosen the economic stranglehold which we have employed against Cuba.

He says that the people of Cuba are better off now than they were before Castro. This is not only unrealistic, but shows either a lack of knowledge on the present state of affairs in Cuba, or a refusal to recognize the fact that Castro has turned that island nation from one of the most prosperous countries in Latin America into the beggar nation of the communist world.

I would like to just touch on a few points to indicate what Castro has done to a nation which was well on its way to self-sufficiency. "The Cuban economy is in shambles. The gross national product in 1967 was approximately the same as it was in 1958, ($2.5 billion) despite the increase in population and vast scientific and technical advances in methods of farming and manufacturing.

"The per capita annual income has dropped since Castro took over. Before Castro, Cuba ranked third in Latin America in per capita income.

"Before Castro, Cuba's domestic production satisfied demand for poultry, eggs, beef, milk, cheese and butter, and most other food stuffs. Now there are severe ration on food. Cubans are limited to 1/4 of a pound of meat per week, or a little three pounds per month when it is available and it is not always available. Milk is rationed for those under five years of age. Coffee is limited to ounces per month. Eggs and bread are hard to come by.

"Clothing is also on the scarce list. The nation took in February, 1968, entitled each person to buy two shirts, one pair of trousers and two pairs of shoes a year. But shoes are often impossible to find.

"Before Castro, Cuba had one of the world's leading sugar crops. But since Castro took over, Cuba has never matched the peak production established prior to his regime. This, despite the fact that he has disrupted the entire economy in mad attempts to set records. As a result, all other phases of the economy have suffered, including the educational process and the routine duties of government.

Adding to the African authenticity of Florida's Lion Country Safari, the $3.6 million tourist attraction located near Royal Palm Beach, more than 100 imported snakes are being introduced this week into the 600-acre wild-game preserve.

General Manager Bill Drege said the added attraction, Reptile Wonderland, is being operated by a young couple, Jess and Louis Koen, who had managed the Maitzenberg Snake Farm in Africa.

The open pit housing the snakes contains such poisonous and non-poisonous species as the black mamba, box constrictor, puff adder, Egyptian cobra, taipan, Cape cobra, spinning cobra, boomslang, venomous twig snake, and a 22-foot anaconda along with other exotic reptiles as the rhinoceros iguana.

The management of WSWN-FM stereo takes pleasure in announcing they will carry the entire schedule of the Miami Dolphins Football Team.

The kick-off of the season begins with the Dolphins facing one of the arch-rivals, the Buffalo Bills at Rochester, New York.

Game time: Sunday, Aug. 11 2 P.M. EST

Consistent effort on the part of the management of WSWN-FM was expended in securing the games for the evergrowing audience throughout the lake region and Palm Beaches. Residents of the Lake area and adjacent regions are strong long-haul fans, so naturally there will be a considerable audience to reckon with.

Anyone interested in the full schedule may secure it from the Florida National Bank or Blackwell-Welding & Machine or WSWN office.

En Harpenden, INGLATERRA, una maquina británica que extrae la proteína de las hojas verdes, fue ofrecida la pasada semana, como una ayuda para aliviar al hambre del mundo.

La maquina puede extraer 40 libras de proteína pura, de una tonelada de hojas ordinarias tales como clover, trigo o montañas.

Esto puede servir las necesidades de 60,000 personas por año. Fue diseñado que sean incluidas en áreas hambrientas de proteínas, usando las hojas que crecen en cada localidad y evitando el costo de transporte y distribución.

A esta proteína que luce como una crema de espesura se le puede dar el sabor que guste a cada cual.

Seat Belts In Use In Only 12 Percent Of Cars

The Florida Highway Patrol this week revealed figures showing that in only 12 percent of the cars involved in accidents during 1967 were the occupants wearing seat belts at the time of the accident.

Colonel H. N. Kirkman, Director of the Department of Public Safety said, "This figure reflects both the cars in accidents that did not have seat belts installed and those that did have them but were not in use."

The records show that in fatal accidents the percentage of cars with seat belts was 11 percent, out of 2,293 cars involved in fatal crashes in 1967, only in 190 or eight percent, were the seat belts being used.

Reports from injury producing accidents showed that 11 percent of the cars involved had seat belts in use.

"If given a chance, seat belts can save lives and reduce injuries. My advice is for drivers and passengers to buckle-up for every trip whether it is to the neighborhood grocery store or across the State," concluded Kirkman.

The Latin, Miguel Perez and Alex Medina, will team up against the Blue Demons this Friday night at the Belle Glade Armory.

Second on the agenda will be a match between Al Webb, a bikerwheeler 250 lb. Desert Air, and Lino Romero.

The clever Negro wrestler, Tom Jones, will face the powerful 340 lb. Tank Morgan in the final match on this Friday night's wrestling card.

Florida's new motor vehicle inspection law will be enforced with leniency in counties whose inspection facilities are not yet in full operation.

"More than 3,500 people are involved in these inspection stations, handling equipment that takes time to learn to operate," said State Treasurer Bernard Williams.

"Most of these people have never done this type of work before, they have to learn their jobs."

"It's not something that can be done overnight."

At the same time, the Treasurer urged the lagging counties to move with dispatch in completing arrangements for their inspection programs.

"Remember," he cautioned, "motor vehicle inspection is the law of the land, and the motorists will suffer if the inspection facilities are not opened as rapidly as practicable."

This week, the State Cabinet directed lenient enforcement of the new law in counties where motorists are unable to comply because the facilities are not available in time.

Treasurer Williams suggested the Highway Patrol be stationed in those areas where the facilities are poor, the facilities are poor, the facilities are poor.

"We don't want to go out and arrest people," he said before, they have to learn their jobs."
